EXPENSIVE DELICACIES.

The Delicious Food Eaten by a Backwoodsman.

Eggs at Ten Dollars Apiece—They Are Very Scarce, of Course, But Gourmants Must Have Them—A Chapter for Epicures.

"I have eaten the egg of many wild birds, from the plover to the wild goose, and have found some of them very good and many of them very bad," said an epicure to a New York Mail and Express reporter, "but the ruffed grouse's egg is simply a morsel fit for the gods. The pampered palate of no Oriental potentate ever lingeringly dallied with so rich and perfect a delicacy, and yet I never ate grouse's eggs elsewhere than on the rough, uncovered table of some backwoodsman's cabin, the last place in the world where the epicure might expect to have his taste satisfied, let alone glorified. How were they prepared? Simply boiled. Boiled until the white and yolk were thoroughly cooked. A ruffed grouse's egg is big enough to make two dainty bites. It isn't at all likely that you will ever have the opportunity of breakfasting on this delicacy, as it is more than scarce nowadays. Besides, the law places a price on ruffed grouse's eggs that put them out of the reach of the ordinary run of egg-eaters. In the estimation of the law these eggs are worth $10 apiece—$120 a dozen—and they are worth it. But in case the rare happiness of sitting down to a meal with a dozen of them may occur to you some time, I had better tell you how they should be disposed of. Don't cut a grouse's egg in two, nor dig the meat from the shell with a spoon. Either would be profanation. Gently tap the small end of the egg on your plate until the shell is cracked. Then peel the shell carefully off the meat. The shell is very brittle and the richness beneath it very tender. When this is bared of its covering it lies in your hand a velvety ellipse, white as ivory. Do not salt or pepper it, or you spoil it. But eat half of it. The meat, both the ivory white and the old gold yolk, will melt in your mouth like some rich, creamy paste, and its flavor is indescribably delicious.

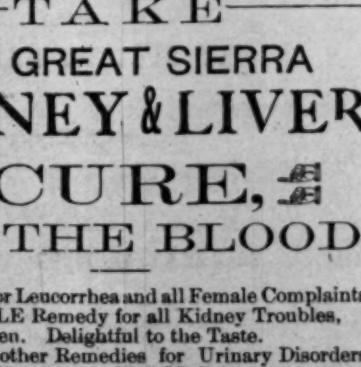

"It has been a long time since I tickled my palate with ruffed grouse's eggs. They are only in season for a few days in May, when they are fresh laid in the nest, and of course a person has to be right on the ground to take advantage of them.

"Next to the ruffed grouse the pinnated grouse, or prairie chicken, lays the best eggs for eating. I have known as high as $60 a dozen to be paid for prairie chicken eggs in Chicago, although in the early days of that city, while the surrounding prairie still swarmed with that game bird, its eggs were more abundant in the market than hens' eggs were. I have no doubt that eggs of all the numerous grouse family are superior to those of the hen, but I never ate any but the two mentioned.

"In this country there is no such thing as the business of gathering wild eggs, but in England the collecting of wild birds' eggs for the table is a regular calling, particularly plover eggs. The eggs of the plover is a great delicacy among epicures there. Go into any of the poultry shops in English towns and cities during April and May and you will see an enticing display of plover, partridge and other edible eggs of wild birds. They are usually shown in baskets fashioned in imitation of moss-lined birds' nests, each basket containing a dozen eggs. Plover eggs are the most abundant, but baskets made up from selections from different kinds of wild eggs are common. Plover eggs are sold for four shillings a dozen—about one dollar—and, of course, do not enter very largely into the marketing of the poor. The hunting of plover, eggs is a profession with a certain class of shiftless men and boys. The finding of the eggs usually requires a great degree of skill and cunning, and the business is not over profitable to the nest hunters. Three dozen eggs a day is a big day's hunting. The dealer has a way of testing the eggs to satisfy himself as to their soundness, and it is rare, indeed, that two or three bad ones are not found in each nest. The collector is paid thirty cents a dozen for his sound eggs. Thousands of dozens of plover eggs are sold to be collected every spring. There is no law against the robbing of nests, but the severe and general laws against trespassing are a constant menace to the egg-hunters.

"The eggs of some wild fowl rank high among edible wild eggs, with the accent on the rank. The eggs of all wild ducks, with the exception of the wood or summer duck, and the egg of the water hen, are strong and tough. Why they should be I don't know, as these birds, or the most of them, are clean, vegetable feeders. The wood duck egg is a passably good article of food. A boiled wild goose egg, if it were round, would make a first rate bowling ball, but a wild swan's egg is very palatable. The egg of the wild turkey is better than that of any domestic fowl. The semi-wild fowls, as the guinea hen and the peafowl, lay eggs that are more grateful than an ordinary hen's egg to the palate of the epicure. The speckled, humming-top shaped egg of the screaming guinea hen is the best poultry yard egg for the table that the farmer can sell. Speaking of the poultry yard naturally suggests the pigeon. The egg of that bird is utterly worthless for food. The wild pigeon's egg turns to milk when boiled, and smells like rancid oil. The quail's egg is a sweet, creamy, but insipid little morsel, and, like the cherry, you can't make two bites of it. I intend to try how sparrow eggs will touch the epicurean taste, and if they warrant it, will try and introduce them as a table dainty. That might be a good way toward abating these little 'luxuries'.

A VERDANT TENDERFOOT.

How a Western Ranchman Secured a New Wagon Without Cost.

Many stories have been told on the plains as illustrating the verdancy and eastern innocence of "pilgrims" and "tenderfoots." One of the best is told by the Denver News in regard to the manner in which one of the old plains ranchmen up near the South pass got a new wagon. He had an old one, which was practically worthless, and he had made many efforts to trade it off to passing trains and travelers, but without success. He was getting considerably discouraged, when a lone "pilgrim" appeared at the ranch and camped for the night. The pilgrim was very green, and as he was bound over the mountains, had many questions to ask about the mountain pass, how wide it was, and whether wagons experienced much difficulty in getting through. He had a brand new wagon, which struck the ranchman's eye, and he determined to play a bold game to get it. The next morning the "pilgrim" saw the ranchman very carefully measuring his wagon, and very naturally his curiosity was excited, and his inquiries were answered by the solemn assurance from the ranchman that the wagon was just two inches too wide to get through the pass. The pilgrim was unbothered and a peck of trouble. Finally his eyes rested on the old rattler of the ranchman, which he measured and found to be two inches narrower than his own. He promptly proposed a trade. The ranchman demurred. His wagon was old, to be sure, but then it was narrow enough to go through the pass in case he should ever want to visit Salt Lake valley. The more he objected the more importunate the "pilgrim" became, and finally a trade was consummated, the ranchman getting the new wagon and pocketing a good round sum to boot. The "pilgrim" went on his way rejoicing at his good fortune in getting a wagon which would go through the narrow pass; but when he reached the western slope he must have realized how badly he had been victimized, since the South pass is broad enough to march an army through and not the narrow gorge, barely wide enough for a wagon, which had been pictured to him, and which he was so willing to believe.

High Water Pressure.
France claims the honor of utilizing a higher water pressure than that recently put in operation in the Chollar shaft on the Comstock lode in Nevada. At Grignon, two kilometers from the valley of Grignon, near Grenoble, a turbine nine feet ten inches in diameter was put in operation in the year 1873, utilizing a head of 1,688 feet. It is still working, and gives a force of 1,500 horse-power, with a flow of 800 liters of water a second.

An Old Story Revived.
An English clergyman, it is said, who was recently telling the story of the good Samaritan, got two incidents in the Bible mixed, with a decidedly ludicrous result. After reciting the good Samaritan's promise to the landlord of the inn, "and when I come again I will repay thee," he added, "this he said, knowing that he should see his face no more."

A new disease called photo-electric ophthalmia is described as due to the continual action of the electric light on the eyes.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

THE report that a meeting of the State Board of Education is to be held at Carson on Saturday for the purpose of considering the matter of another change of text-books is likely to create a suspicion that some other publishing house is getting in its work. Did the Board give as much attention to the prescribing and causing to be adopted a course of study in the public school as to persistent, and not always honest, publishing houses, they would command greater respect than by again agitating the subject of adding another indirect tax to the patrons of our schools to fill the coffers of corporations and firms who send their agents, far and near, armed with all the implements of warfare necessary to come out victors in a text-book fight.

Since March, 1885, the law has been in force making it a duty of the State Board of Education to adopt a course of study. They have not given any reason for their non-action in a matter which is so vital to the youth of the State, other than, it has been rumored they excused themselves by saying that no course that they might adopt would be acceptable to the educators of the State. If that be true of a course of study, it is also true of text-books. But men accepting so important a trust as that of a State Board of Education should not seek to please further than so far as fearlessly and faithfully doing a duty may please. Before spending time or taxing their energies over new text-books the Board of Education owe to the schools of Nevada to not only adopt a uniform course of study, but to see that the course is respected. This done, teachers and pupils will be better served than it is possible to be served by the questionable periodical change of school books, which has come about every four years for the last quarter of a century.

THE Comstock's "Great Political Weapon," John M. Campbell, lessee and editor, has again stopped over, and it becomes our duty to again call it to order. It says "The Reno GAZETTE is not, as a rule, forward in expressing an opinion," and then goes on in an attempted answer to a GAZETTE editorial on the Carson river water question. It takes up a column of space filled with the vilest rot in its labored attempt, and, as usual, waffles all around the subject and finally leaves it where it started. It seems very strange that when the GAZETTE does "express an opinion" on any matter in relation to the Comstock mines or their management that it should excite so feeble a whine from that journal. The GAZETTE does not deary one industry at the expense of another, however, but advises both to give and take. If, as that journal states, the farmers are wilfully wasting the water, they are committing a crime that is almost unpardonable, but if they are using it sparingly to get the soil to yield them a crop they are but carrying out human nature, and if the mills own the water it is a question to be settled at the "expensive conclusions of law," and not by the Comstock's "Great Political Weapon."

The California Spirit of the Times closes an editorial on the management of the public schools of San Francisco, as follows:

Certain it is unless there is some brake put upon the infamous conspiracy now in operation against the public schools of San Francisco, and that right speedily, there will be no public school system left upon which to operate. It is no use to single out individuals among the dishonest conspirators engaged in this deplorable work, as the responsibility must be borne by the entire pack. If the head-devil, had no followers, he would be ineffective for harm, and therefore the band that trains with him are in the same boat.

COLLIS P. HUNTINGTON of the Southern Pacific system is sparing no efforts to render inoperative the Congressional anti-Chinese legislation. Collis does not represent this coast on the Chinese question,

Another Fresno Fire.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.
FRESNO, Cal., July 17.—A fire started in a stable next to the Russ Hotel this morning at a quarter to four o'clock. The lively stable and contents, including many horses and vehicles, were destroyed. The flames spread to the Russ Hotel and quickly burned that building to the ground. The indications are that it was of incendiary origin. The loss will reach about $40,000.

Fears were entertained at first that some of the guests of the hotel had perished in the flames, but at 2 o'clock this afternoon a thorough search of the ruins had been made, and it seems certain that no lives were lost. There were a number of narrow escapes. Several persons were burned, but not severely.

Still at His Horrid Butchery.

LONDON, July 17.—The woman's body found in Whitechapel district last night was that of a middle-aged prostitute. Her throat had been cut to the spine. The body was lying on its back, and the clothing had been thrown up, exposing the abdomen, which had been gashed in a horrible manner in several places, though the intestines were not exposed. No part of the body was missing, and warm blood was flowing from the wounds. A policeman, who, with the watchman of an adjacent warehouse, must have been within a few yards of the spot, heard no noise.

It is stated that a letter was received by the police before last night's murder in Whitechapel, signed "Jack the Ripper," in which the writer said he was about to resume work.

Para-II Commission.

LONDON, July 17.—The cross examination of Matt Harris, a Member of Parliament, was continued before the Parnell Commission to-day. He testified that he could not say whether $530,000 was the amount Patrick Egan acknowledged receiving from America. Witness went to New York in 1883, via Paris, getting the money from Parnell to pay a part of his expenses. He met Egan, Walsh and Sheridan. He did not believe Sheridan would enter into a conspiracy to commit murder. Harris declared that he never invited any person to commit crime. He had declared that the land-lords had done more harm to Ireland than could have been done by Bengal tigers or any other wild animals.

A Tough Gang.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 17.—Strawberry plains has long been the rendezvous of a band of thieving negroes. Some time since two of the band were arrested for petty thieving, and James Stevens appeared against them. On Monday night Stevens was assassinated, and it is thought the shot was fired by Bill Jackson, a desperate negro. Jackson is being hunted and if caught he will be lynched.

Sarah Althea Reversed.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.
SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—The Supreme Court of California to-day reversed the decision of Judge Sullivan of the Superior Court, in the celebrated Sharon case. The Supreme Court holds there was no marriage between the late ex-Senator Sharon and Sarah Althea Terry.

Attempted Assassination.

RIO JANEIRO, July 17.—The Emperor of Brazil attended a theatrical performance last night, and on leaving at the conclusion a Portuguese fired a shot at him, but the bullet missed its mark. The would-be assassin was arrested.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The State Department has been informed that yellow fever has made its appearance at Colon.

What Kilrain has to Say.

BALTIMORE, July 17.—Kilrain arrived here yesterday and has entirely recovered from the effects of the battle. He does not show a mark of any kind. Kilrain said he was squarely whipped, but thought he was largely the victim of circumstances. When asked directly if he thought he had been drugged, he said: "Johnny Murphy, when asked the same question, answered mysteriously that there was something wrong, but for the present his tongue was tied, and when the time came he expected to make some important revelations."

"What have you to say about Mitchell?" the reporter asked.

"Well, he was not very attentive, to say the least."

"If you ever fight again would you have Mitchell for your trainer?"

"No sir, don't know that I would; but I don't know that I will fight any more. I think I have had my share of it."

In speaking further about the fight, Kilrain said: "I weighed 185 pounds when I went into the ring, and all talk about me only weighing 168 is all bosh. I know I had not been trained properly and was not in a fit condition to fight Sullivan. But if I had not gone into the ring people would have said I was a coward, and I meant to fight if I was killed. The crowd there was against me, and the referee, I think, while a square man, was partial to Sullivan, and knew nothing about the rules. Both he and the crowd were all the time telling me to go up to Sullivan, and I went, knowing I would only be knocked down. Of course, the referee had no right to say a word, and under the rules, I could have run all around the ring, but there was no one but little Murphy to coach me, and I blindly went up and took my medicine. The fact that I was knocked down repeatedly, but not knocked out, shows that Sullivan's terrible blows did not have the power some people supposed they did. I could have stood up longer, but Donovan threw up the sponge in the excitement, being afraid I would get killed. My blows, for some reason or other, didn't seem to have any force. My arms seemed numb, but what was the matter, I don't for the life of me know. The sun had a terrible effect on me. My back was one big blister after the fight."

Rusk on the Presidency in 1892.

NEW YORK, July 17.—A Times Washington special quotes Secretary Rusk on the Presidential outlook for 1892 as follows: "Harrison will be the candidate, and a right popular and successful one will be, too." "You have no doubt that Harrison will be a candidate?" "None whatever." "And that he will win?" "Of course he will win. He is making a most popular President, especially with the common people. Of course there are some politicians who think he is not making removals as fast as they would wish, but President Harrison is a level, clear-headed man who knows what he is about, and will prove himself one of the best, as well as one of the most popular Presidents. But there, if I go on any further, you will be printing an interview with him and don't you go and do it."

An Evident Swindle.

TORONTO, July 17.—Edmund von Horst, a stylishly dressed German, was arrested yesterday afternoon on the charge of vagrancy. The real cause of the arrest was for a suspicion that he was concerned in selling suppurating bonds, which he alleges were issued by E. H. Harner, a banker of New York. Enormous premiums were offered, ranging from $50,000 to $2,000,000. By the payment of $5 it was said a purchaser secured a share in the distribution, and a bond became his absolute property on the payment of 19 other installments of $5 each. The bonds to be given away are Bacharest, Austrian, Italian and Hollandish. Von Horst professes to be entirely innocent of any wrong, and asserts that he secured the agency for the bonds through the medium of an advertisement inserted by Horner.

Reported Resuscitation of a Murderer.

ATLANTA, July 17.—A month has passed since John Pickett expired the crime of murder on the gallows. The memory of the event has been re-awakened in a remarkable manner. A report comes from Sumpter county that Pickett is still alive and in that portion of the State. After hanging, the body was taken in charge by his friends who worked successfully at resuscitation. If Pickett is still alive and is apprehended, the question is whether he can be further punished. He has been declared legally dead, and the case will prove unparalleled in the history of the State.

A Good Appointment.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Superintendent of the Census Porter, to-day appointed Dr. David T. Day as Export and Special Agent to take charge of the subject of mines and mining for the eleventh census. Mr. Day, who received the degree at St. John's University in 1884, was appointed Geologist in charge of the division of mining statistics and technology in the United States Geological Survey. He has published several volumes of the series of Mineral Resources of the United States, and is regarded by many as one of the best statisticians on mines and mining in the country.

Lost His Rudder and Went to Sea.

NEW YORK, July 17.—An experimental trip was made yesterday by F. D. Hogar, an experienced aeronaut in a controllable air ship. After the ship had risen several hundred feet, the propeller fan used for raising and lowering the ship was lost and fell to the ground. The air ship started out towards the ocean and neither aeronaut or ship have been seen since. The worst is feared.

Invisible Shooters.

NEW YORK, July 17.—Three longshoremen were mysteriously wounded by bullets on pier 35, North River, yesterday. They were new men taken in the place of others discharged, and it is believed the shooting was done by the discharged men. A panic prevails on the dock.

Bar silver, 91 3/4.

Internal Improvements.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Towards the improvements south of the Columbia river, Oregon, Major Thomas H. Handbury, the engineer in charge, reports that there has been expended $614,253, leaving a balance of $173,247 unexpended. For the coming year he recommends an appropriation of $700,000. It will require $2,423,000 to complete the construction of the canal at the Columbia river cascade, and other improvements of the river, also under Major Handbury's charge. For the ensuing year it is estimated that $700,000 can be profitably expended. For other improvements in Oregon and Washington Territory Major Handbury makes the following recommendation: For the Chehalis river, $3,000; Steilacoomish, Nooksack, Snohomish and Snoqualmie rivers, $12,000. The work of gauging the waters of the Columbia of great service to the commerce, can be maintained for any other year more on the unexpended appropriations.

An Unprofitable Discussion.

NASHVILLE, July 17.—The second day's session of the National Educational Association was called to order this morning. Henry A. Wise of Baltimore read a paper upon the introduction of manual training in the public schools. Bishop John J. Keane of Washington read a paper prepared by Cardinal Gibbons, upon the question, "Should Americans educate their children in denominational schools." Bishop Keane followed in a paper on the same subject, taking the position that Christianity should be inculcated during the period when the children are attending school. Mr. Edwin D. Mead of Boston followed in a paper in opposition to parochial schools. Bishop Keane replied and denied Mead's assertion that the Pope or the Roman Catholic Church is seeking temporal power and the control of the government.

Proposed Labor Organization.

CHICAGO, July 17.—A local paper says: A circular has been issued that bears the signature of the chief officers of the principal labor organizations in the United States, including the Knights of Labor, Federation of Labor, Brotherhood, and Carpenters and Joiners. It proposes an alliance of all the labor organizations in the country. If the alliance is realized it will be by far the most formidable labor organization that has ever existed in the United States or elsewhere.

A Glut in the Butter Market.

NEW YORK, July 17.—The accumulation of butter in this city is almost without precedent. There are about 13,000,000 pounds stored here, and the supply is increasing at the rate of 3,950,000 pounds a week. During the past week 850,000 pounds were exported. The amount consumed for the week was 1,600,000 pounds. The most of the merchants are refusing to buy any more butter on their own account, which may soon cause a disastrous break.

Death of a Musical Professor.

ISHPEMING, Mich., July 17.—Professor Benjamin Owen, aged 54 years, died to-day of apoplexy. He was a native of Sweden, and came to America with Ole Bull. He traveled with Nielson and the best opera companies, and was a composer of several pieces of popular music.

Timely Advice.

Let us give the readers of the GAZETTE a little timely advice. Hot weather is coming and with it colic, cholera morbus, dysentery diarrhoea. The only safe way to combat these diseases, is to keep a reliable remedy at hand, and all who have tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy will admit that it is the most prompt, reliable and successful medicine known for these complaints. It costs but 25 or 50 cents and may be the means of saving you or your family much suffering, if not life itself, before the summer is over. For sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.

Foul Play Feared.

Theodore Knox, son of Dr. P. B. Knox of Santa Barbara, Cal., and a member of the hardware firm of Harsch & Knox of Santa Barbara, who disappeared July 8th, has not been found, but Dr. Knox has heard from his son, but in such a peculiar way that he fears foul play.

A. Nelson, the enterprising free employment office agent, and well-known for his fine cigars, tobacco, pipes and Yankee notions, has taken the agency for Dr. Willey's Discovery, the greatest liniment on earth, for rheumatism, coughs, colds, catarrh, asthma and bronchial affections. Also a full line of "Diamata" spectacles and eyeglasses. I buy goods as cheaply as anyone in Reno and can therefore defy competition.

This will make Ellensburg one of the most solidly built cities on the coast.

Consumption Incurable.

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an incurable consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and able to overcome the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made." THE DRAMA IN TEXAS.

One Actress Attracts the Women, the Other the Men.
Under the above heading the Dallas (Texas) News says: There are two kinds of actresses. One has a number of fine dresses and puts on a different one every time she comes on the stage. The other has no clothes at all to speak of. The first attracts the ladies, the second the men. Lily Clay's company, who appeared at the Opera House Monday night, cater to the male theater-goers. It costs less to rig out a company like Lily's, and a full house is always guaranteed, and no weather is bad enough to keep the men away; and, moreover, there is less danger of such a company getting stranded, as a prowling sheriff can find no fine clothes to seize on. A number of passenger agents located in Dallas, along with the rest of the men located here, attended Lily's show, and it is at their request that the News states they would not have gone had it not been their business to endeavor to get the company to travel over their respective rails. A passenger agent, like a newspaper reporter, should be above suspicion.

Seeking Information.

Fish Commissioner Mills is corresponding with Col. Marshall McDonald, U. S. Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries of Washington, D. C., and with S. B. Bartlett, Secretary of the Illinois State Fish Commission, to ascertain the cheapest and most reliable fish ladders to put into the streams of Nevada, and in due time Mr. Mills will be ready to make suggestions to the dam owners in Washoe county.

A Good Showing.

In his final report, the Rev. Mr. Brady of the Reno Methodist Church shows that in the eight and a half months which he has had charge of the church, that thirty new members have been added to the membership, and that for salary and the debt which was resting on the church building when he took charge, $2,499 has been collected, the most of which was contributed in the plate collections.

Hearing on Appeal.

The Elko Independent says: The hearing on appeal to the Supreme Court in the Potts case, and also in the Streeter case, is set for the 23d of September. In the meantime Mr. and Mrs. Potts will remain in their cells in the county jail, and S. M. Streeter will continue to cultivate spuds and other garden truck at the State Prison.

An Honest Officer.

United States Timber Land Agent Snodgrass has shown that he understands the timber question of Eastern Nevada better than any Atlantic coast federal officer who has ever visited this country. He states the truth when he says there is and never has been any timber lands in the locality above referred to worthy of the name.

Ready for Business.

By an item in another column it will be seen that W. B. Dougherty has fitted up some nice rooms in the Sunderland building, where he is prepared to receive a limited number of scholars in bookkeeping. Mr. Dougherty's ability in this line is too well known to require a puff from anybody.

Changed His Plea.

Guiseppi Berni, under indictment in Carson City for murder, has been allowed to withdraw his plea of not guilty and to plead guilty to murder in the second degree. He will be sentenced on Thursday.

Awaiting Examination.

There are four prisoners in jail awaiting the action of the Grand Jury. Two of them are charged with grand larceny, one with furnishing whisky to an Indian, and another with shooting with intent to kill.

BREVITIES.

Local and General Intelligence.
Furnished rooms to let. See 50-cent column.

Reno is at present banked up with traps and drummers.
The Corbett block at Carson, recently burned off, is being cleaned up preparatory to rebuilding with brick.

Mrs. Potts, under conviction in Elko county for the murder of Miss Fancet, is said by the jail officers to be a "holy terror."

Alvaro Evans is said to have forwarded to the Governor his resignation as a Director of the State Board of Agriculture.

Superintendent Donnelly of the Eureka Con., who passed west yesterday, is of the opinion that the burned furnaces will be rebuilt.

Work on the Government building at Carson has been resumed, and if nothing more happens it will be ready for occupancy by the 15th of August.

The hot weather at Carson for the past few days seems to have the effect of driving the people to the lakes or somewhere else, for the streets are quite deserted.

Tickets for the fireman's ball to be given at the Pavilion to-morrow night are to be had at all the stationery stores. The boys are resolved to make their party a complete success. Encourage them by taking a ticket.

The young men composing the baseball club of Reno feel highly pleased over the courteous remarks of the baseball editor of the Enterprise. The pitcher is in hopes of securing him for an umpire for at least one inning.

Mr. O'Farrell, the genial gas man, ought to get out a patent for his lawn sprinkler. He presented one of his own make to the Sisters of Mt. St. Mary's Academy. The gardener says it is the "best" in the city. The sisters are very thankful. Their lawn, by the way, is a beautiful spread of velvety green, kept in the best possible order.

HUMBOLDT ITEMS.

Pumping Water—Placer Mines—Tree Roots—Lost His Voice.
The Winnemucca Silver State says: The pump at the river now operates fourteen hours every day, and the natural conclusion is that the county seat is amply supplied with water.

The Chinese who are working the placer mines in East range are said to be doing well. Gentlemen who visited the canyon a few days ago say they have water enough for rockers and are working gravel rich in gold.

Daniel Harkins, who has been fixing his well preparatory to putting up a windmill, finds that tree roots have cut off the water. He has sent a man to the well and down in the well to water. A question for scientists to solve is how the trees determined the locality of the well, as they did not send roots out that distance in every direction.

For several days past Conductor George Duff has been unable to articulate above a whisper. The cause of the change is not known, as Mr. Duff is in most excellent health, and not susceptible to colds. George took passenger train No. 4 west, and went on to Sacramento to have his case investigated, and while there will have a visit with his two daughters.

A DRUNKEN INDIAN.

How Comstock Sheep Dip Affects the Natives.
Last evening's Virginia Chronicle says: Last evening a drunken Piute buck went on the warpath armed with a pistol, the barrel of which is nearly as long as an ordinary walking stick, and threatened to slaughter all of his dusky brethren and their squaws and their children in the camboodie northeast of the Hale & Norcross waste dump.

The warlike Lo succeeded in rounding up all the Indians in the vicinity in one wickup and then proceeded to carry out his murderous threat by firing into the group. Officer Bradley was notified and when he arrived on the scene the sanguinary buck took to his heels and led the officer a long race before he was captured.

As the fleeing Indian was armed and liable to turn and fire on the pursuing officer at any moment, Bradley displayed great forbearance in refraining from stopping the murderous redskin with a bullet.

The Indian is locked up and will be held until he is sober enough to explain where he procured the fire water that sent him on the warpath.

A BELLIGERENT CELT.

Goes to the House of Correction for Fighting.
The San Francisco News Letter says: "Dennis Gleason, 70 years of age, has been sentenced to the House of Correction for assault. More power to you, Dennis, and this is a shame that a man of your years cannot have a little diversion without being snapped up as if there wasn't more innocent fun in fighting than in eating, when an Irishman makes it. They are all the same, the Irish, young or old; they must have a shindy to keep their blood in circulation. Now, a German at Gleason's age, would devote himself to the sampling of new brands of lager, while a Frenchman or Italian would sit for hours reading the foreign papers and sipping rose wine. Not so with Dennis, however. The blood of the Gleasons could not endure repose, so Dennis sailed in to thrash somebody, and now he has got three months to cool off in. But he has had his fun, all the same, and the odds are about even that on his release he will wallop the first man he meets to show his indifference to age and his freedom from infirmities."

The Closing of an Important Outlet.
The blockade of a port is not more injurious to its commerce than is even the temporary obstruction of the bowels to the health of the system. Constipation necessarily arrests the secretion of bile, impedes and disorders digestion, and poisons the circulation. It is the most general, and also the most effective, as it is also the most gentle, laxative and anti-bilious medicine in existence is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and it is more than probable that its sovereign efficacy as a preventive and remedy for intermittent and remittent fever is largely due to its reformatory action upon the liver, an organ prejudicially involved in all malarial complaints. Persons with a tendency also to rheumatic, neuralgic and kidney trouble can do no better than to antagonize it with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which invariably checks it at the outset. The weak, moreover, are invigorated with strength by this fine invigorant.

My wife has been under physicians care for two years, for what they called "liver complaint." It did her immediate good, and when three bottles had been taken she regained her old accustomed health and spirits and is now as well as ever. Seeing the benefit she derived, I used it for rheumatism with the result that I am now entirely free from the disease with which I had suffered for over a year.

It furnishes the latest and most reliable financial news and market quotations, and gives special attention to horticultural and agricultural news, and is in every respect a first-class family paper, appealing to the interest of every member of the household. The Semi-Weekly Bulletin is the regular Weekly Bulletin and Friday's issue of each week.

HATERS OF WOMEN.

A Physician Relates His Experiences with Misogynists.

Hatred of the Fair Sex Pronounced a Disease Alike to Insanity—Several Cases Illustrating the Truth of This Plausible Theory.

"Women-haters! Plenty of them!" A reporter for the New York World had met a well-known physician, a popular case and conversation that the doctor was holding with a friend over a cigar and a bottle of claret. He spoke easily and with confidence that he knew his subject.

To hate a woman, especially one of the dainty, loving kind, upon whose glances men hang enthralled, or for whose kindly glances men would sacrifice their souls, seemed incredible. Perish the thought! And yet the visitor's mind brought into remembrance cases in which men had avowed they hated women, only to be captured and put in bondage by a pair of bright eyes.

The physician struck a fresh match and watched the smoke from his cigar roll lazily upward as he related a few strange incidents that had come under his observation professionally.

"Once case that I recall," said the doctor, "was that of a German, a member of all the musical societies, who late in life acquired and betrayed an intense hatred of all women. He had been happily married, and no one suspected him of this new feeling that began to creep over him and destroy the love he had for his wife and the respect for his mother."

"He struggled against it and fought it, but it was no use, and the disease, if such it may be called, began to show itself to his family and friends, and an instant estrangement from his wife was the result. He ran away from his home and was finally returned hopelessly insane."

"Now," concluded the doctor, "there was a man who was a woman-hater; only he did not know it, because he was insane." The physician had diagnosed his case aright.

The conversation turned then on a case that had been mentioned by Oliver Wendell Holmes in his book. A very young boy had been left in charge of a nurse, and she had suddenly gone insane. In her maniacal frenzy she tried to strangle her innocent charge, and only desisted when she thought she had succeeded in her object. Then she killed herself with a razor, which she had most shocking sight. The boy revived, and the first thing his eyes fell upon was the corpse.

From that day throughout his childhood and up to the hour of his death the sight of women was enough to throw him into convulsions. His nurses were men, and his family decided it best to seclude him. No woman ever entered his apartments, but all the work of taking care of him devolved upon men. He died in those rooms.

"Yes, that is a strange case," said the physician, meditatively. "But I think I know of one nearly as remarkable," and he went on to relate the following:

"In the spring of '81 I was called in by a prominent banker to attend his son, who had suddenly become afflicted with a strange state of mind, which proved to be a hatred of women. This his family could not understand, as he had always been a leader in social events and fond of ladies' society."

"I found the young fellow's constitution very much run down, and made him admit that he was a victim of the opium habit. He also confessed to me an adventure that had happened to him, but which I will not repeat, as it is too long, in which he had been scared nearly out of his wits by a woman."

"It was easy enough for me to see that unless the impression caught and retained by his mind in its enfeebled state could be removed, he would remain a woman-hater all his life."

"Was it ever removed, doctor?" asked one of the listeners.

"Never," was the answer, and the party relapsed into silence for a moment.

A diversion was caused by the waiter's removal of an empty bottle and the substitution of a fresh one, and the conversation was resumed.

"Tell us another, doctor," insisted the newspaper man.

"I could tell you several more, but would have to do so briefly, as a patient is waiting for me," he responded. "I recollect a gentleman who stood very high in all affairs connected with education in New York. He, too, was a woman-hater. As his opinion on school affairs was considered valuable, many teachers, especially ladies, used to run to him for advice, but, as he was deeply engaged in study, their calls were a source of annoyance to him and irritated him into the state of mind that I have mentioned."

"He was a bachelor, but he finally discharged all his women servants, substituting men. And orders were given that no woman was to be allowed to set foot within his doors. He has often told me that women had prevented his reaching the highest rounds of science and that he could never regain the time lost."

"I know another case where a man intrusted his entire fortune to a woman, and she made away with it and made a woman-hater out of him. He could never address one."

"But," concluded the doctor, impressively, "I think that designing mothers are responsible for many of the woman-haters, as they frequently prevent their daughters from marrying the men of their choice, and when a girl deserts the man she loves and marries another it is very apt to do mental injury to the first."

A BAR HARBOR IDYL.

How a Young Woman's Poodle Was Labeled by a Wicked Man.

Once on a time there was at one of the Bar Harbor hotels a young woman from New York who was to spend with her friends a summer of idyllic life. She had more air than a hand-organ, and, says the Boston Courier, they were of the same artificial character. She was the laughing-stock of the guests at the house, and there were numberless jokes at her expense which she had not apparently the wit to appreciate.

Miss X had a poodle on which she lavished the choicest treasures of her affections. The creature had its own special maid, and was taken out to ride in state every morning with as much tenderness as if it had been a child. One day Miss X came down to the dining-room for dinner in a state of much agitation. She announced that dear Flopsy's maid was ill, and she really had no one to stay with the sweet creature while she came to dinner.

"She could not force out of the blight which might be cast upon the poodle's tender sensibilities by the loneliness to which she was condemned for half an hour. There was at the table a Bostonian who from the bottom of his soul loathed Miss X, her poodle and her affectations. He rose, as she continued her plaint, and went out quickly, and his friends supposed that he could not endure her twaddle."

But as a matter of fact he went intent upon wicked thoughts. He knew where in the stables was a litter of blind, rough-coated mongrel pups, the children of the most plebeian of curs. He hurriedly robbed the dirty little mother of the whelp, bribed a chambermaid, and when Miss X hurried up from her dinner to console Miss Flopsy for her absence she found her pet surrounded by a litter of the most disagreeable pups that the eye of man ever lighted upon. Miss X was not clever enough to conceal what she supposed to be the shame of her beloved poodle, but shrieked and wept and made generally the most tremendous fuss. As the Bostonian had let a few of his friends into the secret, it soon got about, and the amount of jesting and chaffing that fell to the lot of Miss X was immeasurable. She soon discovered the truth of the matter, and her indignation knew no bounds. She endured for a couple of days the mock-earnest inquiries after the health of her dog and her dog's family, but at the end of that time she silently gathered her belongings together and took herself away. She could endure it no longer, and Flopsy, the injured, passed with her mistress out of the life at Bar Harbor as completely as if the pair had never existed.

Uncle Medill and the Reporter.
They tell in Chicago a story about Uncle Joseph Medill, the owner of the Chicago Tribune, and a new reporter of that paper. The reporter was sent the other evening to write up a reception. He got along all right until he met a fine-looking gray-bearded old gentleman, the center of a group of ladies and gentlemen. As is customary, apparently in Chicago, the reporter entered the group and got the names of those present, but when he asked for the old gentleman's name he was answered by a loud and and exasperating: "Eh?" "I should like your name, please." "Eh? What? Speak louder!" yelled the old gentleman, putting his hand to his ear. The reporter filed his lungs with air and then yelled: "I am a reporter, and would like your name!" "Oh, reporter, eh? What paper?" "The Tribune, will you please give me your name?" The old man looked at the young man kindly, stroked his beard, and said, quietly: "Joseph Medill."

How He Became Famous.

The Walker, Iowa, News, says: Our old friend, Robert Baird, of Muscatine, Iowa, has been Secretary of the State Senate, and an active politician for years, but was never generally known until he had the colic, and used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and got into one of their advertisements.

"Now he is famous." Here is what Mr. Baird said: "While I was in Des Moines, I was taken with a severe attack of bowel complaint. For two days I suffered intensely, trying several drug stores and paying them for relief, but in vain. I finally bought a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and two doses of that brought me out all right. It costs less than the drug-store preparations and I have the balance for future use. I consider it a grand remedy." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.
